Japan,-Mr. Harris, the American Consul in Japan, has accomplished the following:

"Permanent residence is guaranteed to Americans after the 4th of July next. The ex-territoriality of Americans acknowledged, and they are amenable only to their own laws. The Consul-General and his family have the right to buy direct from the seller, and pay him in Japanese coin; and he is not bound, in relation to penetrating the interior, by the limit of seven ri, or miles. The spies are all sent back to Jedde; free access is allowed to all shops and houses; and no policemen follow us any more. We have fair prospects of settling many other maters."

MADAME IDA PERIFER.—Through the kindness of a friend, we are able to give the latest information as to Madame Ida Pfeiffor's visit to Madagascar and its sudden close. Madame Pfeiffer left Mauritius for Madagascar, with every prospect of a pleasant mad instructive visit, in company with M. Lambert, a gentleman well acquainted with the Island of Madagascar, and in high favor with Queen Ranavalona. They arrived at Tananarive, the central district of the island, and the locality of the royal residence. They were, at first, received with every mark of kindness and favour, but, unfortunately, the mind of that capricious lady, Ranavalona, became possessed of the idea that they had some notion of endeavoring to procure her dethronement, and of placing one of the sons of Radama, the late King of the Ovahs, in possession of the throne. Her kindness at once changed, and she ordered the immediate expulsion of M. Lambert and Madame Pfeifer, with severe threats if they dared to remain on the island. This is not the first time this queen has behaved in a similar manner to French and English. After great difficulty, Madame Pfeiffer reached the seacoast, and embarked again for the Mauritius. She had caught the terrible Madagascar fever, and was seriously ill after her arrival at Port Louis. Thanks to the climite of that island, and to the kindness of her friends at Vacoa, she was quite convalescent at the departure of the last Overland mail, on the 14th of November. Madame Pfeiffer was then meditating a voyage to Australia. It is unfortunate that her voyage to Madagascar was not more successful; but her memoir will be expected with interest. [London Athensum. Cure for Hydrophodia.—M. Guillabert, a surgeon of the first class in the French navy, has just addressed a letter to the Academy of Sciences in Paris, on a specific which enjoys great reputation in Greece as a sovereign remedy for hydrophobia. In 1852, he received orders to visit the Convent of Saint Mary Phaneromene, in the Island'of Salamis, noted for many wonderful cures, in order to examine the remedy, and inquire into the treatment of the patients laboring under that terrible malady, and in 1855 some of his observations were communicated to the Academy of Medicine. The treatment is as follows:

"The bite is first cauterised with boiling oil, and 15 grains of a powder, composed of equal parts of the radical bark of the Synanchum erectum and an insect known in entomology by the name of Mylabris simaculata, are administered inwardly. Dr. Camescasse, theachief physician to the navy at Smyrna, subsequently sent both the plant and insect to the French Minister of Commerce. Although the efficacy of the specific was doubted, not only by the above gentlemen, but by Dr. Rozer, physician to King Otho of Greece, it was resolved that it should be put to the test at the first opportunity. As Dr. Rozer had often been obliged to cure the effects produced by the treatment of the monks of Salamis, such as violent vomiting and purging, he determined to modify the prescription. The first case of hydrophobia that presented with a red-hot iron, and half a grain of cantharides administered internally, and repeated until symptoms of gastro-intestinal irritation appeared. As for the synanchum, which is a weak purgative, he administered it under the form of a descottion in the proportion of 12 grammes per kilogramme of water. The patient was saved."

RUNAWAY SLAVES IN ILLINOIS.—Some time since, the agents of the Illinois Central Railroad permitted a runaway slave from Missouri to ride over the road from Cairo to Chicago. The Missouri owner of the chattel sued the Railroad Company for the value of his "property," and the case has just been decided by the Supreme Court of Illinois. According to The Chicago Democrat the opinion of the Courts is in effect, that the constitution and laws of Illinois recognise all men within the State as free men; that Slavery is an institution of mere local law in the States where it exists, which local law extends to no other State; that the law of Missouri under which the alleged slave is claimed by the plaintiff, has no force whatever in the State of Illinois, but is "repugnant to our laws;" and that, therefore, the plaintiff, "under the law of Illinois, "has no property in the fugitive, and can here, under "has no property in the fugitive, and can here, under the saw of minors, "has no property in the fugitive, and can here, under "State authority, assert no property in or authority "over him." The Court furtuer give the opinion that the case is one that comes under the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts, and that a State tribunal cannot take cognizance of such causes—and concludes that "prop-erty in persons being repugnant to our laws and the

"erty in persons being repugnant to our laws and the genius of our State institutions, our Courts will not enforce, as a general rule, the laws of other States recognizing this species of property, where the cause of action, based upon such laws, arises in the State." It is said that the case will be carried to the Supreme Court of the United States.

FERRIPUL TRAGEDY.—On the night of Monday, the 18th instant, a young man by the name of William Hamilton, while at a Charivari, was shot by Richard N. Pierce, and instantly expired. The following are all the circumstances we have been able to obtain: Pierce was married on the 1st of January, and on Monday moved into a house he had bought, about 2½ miles south of this village, in this town, and on what is known as the "School Section." Several of the young men of his acquaintance had threatened to "horn" him, and he, aware of this, had berrowed a smooth-bore rifle, with which to defend hiuself.

Pierce ordered them to leave, firing his gun in the air. This only served to excite the party, and after a variety of other performances, Pierce growing angry, discharged his gun at the crowd, killing Hamilton instantly, and wounding one or two others slightly. Hamilton, it is said, died without a struggle or groan. He was about twenty-one years, has always borne an irrepreschable twenty-one years, has always borne an irreproachable character, and was highly esteemed. Dukl between Giggy as the notified us of a duel, which was to take place at the Chippewa Agency on the 12th inst., between a Mr. Giggy, a citizen of Crow-Wing, and Hole-in-the-Day, the well-known Chippewa Chief. The duel, we understand, took place, per agreement, and three shots were fired by each party. At the first fire, both were wounded, Mr. Giggy receiving a ball in the right side. At the second fire Giggy was wounded in the left side. It was with difficulty that he could stand up for the third fire; but the Indian Chief would not agree to settle the difficulty, and the third fire was exchanged, and Hole-in-the-Day was shot through the heart. These are the particulars, as communicated to some of our citizens in letters from Crow-Wing. [St. Paul Pioneer, Jan. 19.

"The Empress wore a crimson velvet mantle, embroidered with gold, and her Majesty was positively dazzling with diamonds. Contrary to the custom observed last year, her Majesty had no one to bear her train. Among the ladies present, the toilettes were especially remarked of Mrs. Baring, sister of the Ducke de Bassano, who had a dress and court mantle of moiré antique of pale green; the Duckess d'Istrie, a dress shot with silver, edged with red, and a rose-colored mantle; Madame Poujade, niece of the Caimacan of Wallachia, a dress of blue satin, and a mantle of the same material, creamented with bouquete of flowers and cherries, which produced a charming effect; and Baroness de Brigode, a white satin dress and mantle of great elegance.

Erie sold at 21 at epening transactions, but was afterward dull and a shade lower. The January earnings, we understand, thus far show an increase of $77,000 over the corresponding time in 1857—rather an unexpectedly favorable feature in the business of the road. Reading was firm, without imach activity. Illinois Central fell off to 941, and was rather dull. Galena is steady at quotations. Rock Island, on the other hand, was heavy and lower.

Tuesday, Jan. 26-P. M. Business at the Stock Exchange was quite active today, especially in bond securities, but prices were not sustained, and, with two or three exceptions, quotations are lower than at the close of yesterday. At the First Board the bransactions in bonds reached an aggregate of $256,000, amounting to $88,000 in Missouris alone. The greatest advance was in Illinois Central bonds, which went up to 97, with sales of $30,000 at that quotation. There is some buying on foreign orders, but the rise to-day has been mainly the result of the purchases of the shorts, who have been for a day or two somewhat cramped to make their deliveries. The bonds were offered at 95, seller sixty. Tennessees were firm at a slight advance. La Crosse land grants were a little off, but quite active. Michigan Central 8 & cent new loan declined

Crosse declined a fraction. At the Second Board there was a partial decline in leading stocks, and upon the whole a dall, if not positively heavy market. Erie was tolerably firm, but New-York Central fell off 1 ? cent on very limited sales. Rock Island continued heavy, and after the adjournment sold as low as 651, though afterward in demand at 651. At these points outside buyers are likely to be attracted again. The Bond movement was still extensive, making the entire amount at both sessions $341,500. Illinois Central declined 1 & cent. Michigan Central was firm throughout the day on limited sales.

The course of the market to-day is rather contrary to its natural tendency, but not at all surprising under all the circumstances—considering the material advance established within a few days. These petty reactions, in the great movements of the market, furnish no criterion of its real condition and tendency. The last steamer brought orders from Europe to a considerable amount, and the next mails, which are close at hand, will probably increase the demand on foreign account. The last English reports in regard to American securities were decidedly the most favorable of any received since the suspension of the Bank-Charter act.

At the close Erie was 214 a 214; Reading, 57 a 574;

Rock Island, 654 a 66; Central, 804 a 804; Galena 744 @741; Southern, 191 @191; Toledo, 411 @411.

The mail for the Boston steamer is a large one, although the demand for bills was less active toward the close. Strictly first-class bills show an improvement on the rates by the last steamer, but second-rate names have been more difficult of negotiation. Commercial bills have sold at 108] $\pi$109; Bank signatures at 109] @1092, and leading City drawers 1091 @110. There are not many first-class bills over. Francs were firm at 5.18] a 5.12].

The amount of gold sent to Boston for the steamer to-morrow is about $730,000, of which Mr. Belmont ships $500,000. The Bank of North America ships $48,000; Duncan, Sherman & Co., $55,000, &c. This is an unusually large shipment by a Boston boat.

Nothing better illustrates the indomitable energy of the American people, and the almost unlimited resources of this country—its self-sustaining power and great elasticity—than the present state of things, as we examine them with a view to ascertain the actual damage done after an event in the history of finance and trade so remarkable in its sudden development and so devastating in its immediate effects as to be distinguished by such terms as a financial "tornado," a "whirlwind," and a "hurricane". Without desiring to indulge in that feeling of mutual admiration which is sometimes charged to us as a national characteristic, we may yet claim that some of the opinions of Jefferson Brick might now be received as oracular, and that the words of this exaggerated type of American aspirants to honor and fame, which proclaim that "we are a young lion, Sir," are not so decidedly absurd as the author of that creation supposed them to be. Taking all things into consideration, the business world has brobably never witnessed so complete a transformation from apparently great prosperity to palpable and sweeping adversity. At midsummer everything looked smiling and cheerful—trade moved with its accustomed stendiness; our manufactories were in full and apparently successful operation; our crops were over-whelmingly abundant, and nearly every branch of business, with the exception of the shipping interest, seemed in a prosperous condition, so far as surface views indicated the fact. That much of this was unreal, we have since learned; but even though some were distrustful of the times, and saw impending trouble in the enormous expansion of credits and the general tendency to extravagance and excessive enterprise-few if any dreamed of such a quick and fearful realization of their forebodings, and even the bears at the Stock Exchange, who are prone to see everything through darkly blue spectacles, never imagined that a prostration so complete and severe could occur within a period of sixty days. Without entering into a discussion of the causes, in regard to which but few menthink alike, we may dismiss this part of the subject with the passing remark, that perhaps for a great deal of the trouble no cause at all existed, unless sheer fright may be considered a cause; but, as to the immediate and ultimate effects, the subject presents fresh and interesting points. The culminating period of the crisis may be fixed at the date of the suspension of specie payments by our city banks, Oct. 13. At that time universal distress and wild panic prevailed; trade, as if struck with paralysis, existed but in name; credit vanished, fortunes dwindied, and values seemed to be wiped out as with a great sponge, and bankruptcy, like an epidemic, spread over the nation. Three little months have passed away, and although the wrecks of the storm are yet visible, and trade lingers like a patient who has been too much reduced to make a show of strong legs, till the times have undergone a most wonderful change, and the clouds are disappearing with surprising rapidity. Money, which in the panic could hardly be had at any price, is heaping up in great sums at the reservoirs of trade, and the auxiety is 'now to lend, and not to borrow.

Stocks which wasted to phantom figures, now begin to make an array of portly quotations; and credit, which sunk so hopelessly under he withering effect of distrust, actually commences to thrive again. The immediate results of our great panic, then, are not of a fatal character, and if from the bitter experience we have had, we are taught prudence and sound discretion in the future, we may profit by the lesson largely. In the ultimate results we see even greater reason to look for advantage, and in another article an opportunity may offer to examine this branch of the subject.

"It will, perhaps, be noticed that 'liabilities' exceed 'resources' by $1,000. This is the result of an error by the banker who made his report balance, but on footing the items it was found he had made the mistake. The report was sent back to be corrected, but has not been returned."

Caor—There is nothing new to report this week on the subject of crop. The continued falling off in the receipts increases the confidence of the short crop writers in the South, who week after week reduce their figures to accord with each increasing deficiency. Here the estimates remain unchanged, as it becomes more certain that planters hold their supplies in the interior, with the expectation of forcing prices still higher.

Receipts at ports for the week under review are very small, amounting only to 72,000 against 102,000 bales as me week last vear, the total deficit is now 351,000 bales as some week last vear, the total deficit is now 351,000 bales as some week last vear, it is not likely to be reduced for some time, as plantered particularly in the districts tributary to Savannah and Charleston, are holding back their crops with greater determination than ever. The receipts next week will fall short of the corresponding week last year, but only to a moderate extent.

Exports to Great Britain are large for the week, say 49,000 belgs. The joid introse-over last Just is now 12,000.

bales, and will probably disappear next week. We must look now for a steady decrease comparatively in the exports to Great Britain, sa last year after this week large clearances took place. To France the export keeps well up, and shows a decrease of 25,000 bales as compared with last year; to other foreign ports the decrease is 19,000 bales, and is likely to be further reduced as the season advances.

The Sarannah Republican says:

"We heard a rumor vesterday to the effect that the Presidents of the various banks of this city had held a meeting, during the present week, at which they resolved to resume payment of specie at an early day, provided they can obtain the cooperation of the banks of Charleston and Augusta. From indications, we are inclined to believe that the statement is not without authority, and that the proposition will be formally made to the banks of our sister cities in the course of a few days.
